Wish List Letter (Parent)

Dear Sponsor,

I hope this letter finds you well as the holiday season approaches. First, I want to take a moment to express my heartfelt gratitude for your support. Your kindness has made a world of difference in my life and my child's, and I feel incredibly blessed to have someone like you in my corner. As Christmas draws near, I wanted to share something a bit personal. As a single mom, I often put my own needs last, focusing entirely on my little one. This year, I'm hoping for a few things that would allow me to take care of myself in ways I don't usually make time for.

One thing that's been on my mind is a spa day. I've never experienced anything like it before, but the thought of being pampered for just a little while. Another practical gift I've been thinking about is a garment steamer. Between taking care of my baby's clothes and mine, something simple like this would make our days just a bit easier. I've also had my eye on a pair of Chelsea boots with a small heel. It might seem like a small thing, but it would be a little confidence boost.

A vitamin C skincare product is another thing that would be so helpful. Lastly, something that would be an amazing addition is a reusable face mask that I can keep in the freezer. I've heard they're great for relieving stress and puffiness, and it would be a simple way to take care of myself at home. I know these requests might seem small, but to me, they represent so much more. They're little ways for me to reclaim some self-care and confidence—things that are often hard to prioritize as a mom. I hope this letter shows just how much these gifts would mean to me, not just physically but emotionally as well. Thank you for taking the time to read this, and for the love and support you've already shown. It means everything to me.

With all my gratitude,
Yojhana Arroyo

Wish List Letter (Child 1)

Dear Sponsor,

I hope this letter finds you well! As the holidays approach, I wanted to share some gift ideas that would bring so much joy to my little girl, who's now 3 years old. This year, she's hoping for a Bingo stuffed toy, Bluey's sister, so she can have both characters from her favorite show. Another big wish of hers is a bicycle. She's ready to start learning to ride, and I can already see how excited she'll be to explore the world on two wheels. For her safety, I'd also love to get her a matching helmet and some protective gear, like knee and elbow pads. They come in fun, colorful designs she would absolutely adore, and it would keep her safe as she learns.

She's also been asking for a bubble gun. I know it would be a hit! One of her newest obsessions is ballerinas. She loves twirling and dancing, so a ballerina-themed dress with a tutu and ballet shoes would be a dream come true for her. In addition, she's shown interest in learning to skate. She would be thrilled to have skates that are convertible, both with wheels for outdoor skating and for ice skating. These gifts would mean the world to her, and seeing her light up with joy is all I could ask for as her mom. Thank you again for your kindness and generosity—it truly makes such a difference in our lives.

Wishing you a wonderful holiday season
